French Liner Rams Norwegian Freighter In New York Harbor

Twenty-six Persons, Including Captain and Family, Rescued by Ferryboat Crews After Paris, Seventh Largest Vessel in World, Sinks Bessegen Near Statue of Liberty.

KEEN BOW OF STEAMSHIP CLEAVES OTHER CRAFT AMIDSHIPS IN CHANNEL

Before Boats Can be Launched Damaged Craft Goes Down by Stern, Few Members of Her Crew Clinging to Bow as it Points Skyward and Disappears.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The French liner Paris, seventh largest vessel in the world, rammed the Norwegian freighter Bessegen about a half mile south of the Statue of Liberty early today and sent her to the bottom in less than 30 minutes. The Paris was on her way down the harbor bound for Cherbourg.

Seven of the 33 persons aboard the freighter were missing after several hours of heroic rescue work by the crews of ferryboats, which had rushed to the assistance of the stricken steamship when the siren of the Paris screamed for help. Twenty-six were saved.

Among the 26 to be rescued were Captain Ludwig Hassell, 36; his wife, Gudrun, and his four-year-old daughter, Arne. They were picked up by the crew of the ferryboat Brooklyn.

The Paris left her pier at the foot of West Thirtieth street at 1:30 a. m. As she proceeded down the main channel she picked up speed. Sunday across her path the Bessegen loomed. It was too late to avoid a crash. The keen bow of the Paris clove the Norwegian vessel amidships, shivered and came to a stop.

Stokers and Engineers Trapped. Before boats could be launched the Bessegen went down by the stern, a few members of her crew clinging to the bow as it pointed skyward and disappeared.

Only those having ready access to the deck were able to get away at once. The "black gang"—stokers and engineers below—were trapped.

At first it was reported that nineteen men were drowned.

The ferryboat Brooklyn, south-bound from the battery to St. George, was the first vessel to reach the scene. On the orders of the ferryboat captain, nearly all the members of the small crew were assigned to lifeboat duty, dropping boats over-side and searching over the waters with little to guide them in their rescue work but screams of the freighter's crew.

Mad excitement prevailed on the ferryboat in the meantime. Carrying comparatively large number of passengers, the ferry was a scene of terror. Several women, of whom there were a considerable number aboard, fainted. There were several fist fights among frantic men, who punched and clawed each other without reason.

Stories of Survivors. In the meantime there arrived on the scene the "American Legion," another ferry, and a Baltimore and Ohio tugboat. Additional boats were swung over-side and joined in the search for members of the freighter's crew.

The Paris picked up eight men. The first personal stories of the survivors were given by Ingelox Anderson and Alex Lundell, two of the seamen, who were picked up by the "American Legion" and landed at the South ferry slip.

The ship was anchored and many of the crew were sleeping when they were rescued.

$21,000 VERDICT IN RAIL CASE

A verdict for $21,000 for injuries sustained July 16, 1926 when a Detroit-Pittsburgh express train was derailed near Summitville, was returned by a jury in common pleas court, Lisbon, yesterday, in the suit of Herbert Keown, Pittsburgh, against the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

The award was one of the largest ever returned in a Columbus county for personal injuries. Keown asked for $50,000 damages in his suit filed February 3, 1927.

Osborn & Phillips, Cleveland, represented the plaintiff while Billingsley & Moore, Lisbon law firm, and W. L. Kinsey, Steubenville, appeared for the defendant.

16 Dead, Six May Die and 13 Others Are Hurt in Grade Crossing Accident

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 15.—Sixteen dead, six believed to be fatally injured and thirteen others seriously hurt was the toll today of one of Indiana's most disastrous grade crossing accidents.

An inbound union traction company car traveling 60 miles per hour, last night leaped into a truck and trailer carrying more than 60 members of the Sahara grotto to a barn dance at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

The dead: Mrs. R. P. Rhodes. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meredith, Opal Merriman.

Harold Wolford, John Watson, Lee Merriman, Ralph Parker, Charles V. Wheeler, Van Weber Glasscock, William N. Hodges, Charles O. Poisel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dallas, Carl Jones, Mrs. Ada Jones, wife of Carl Jones.

Five in One Family Killed. One of the most pathetic survivors of the crash was Mrs. Von Glascock who lost five members of her family in the accident. She lost her husband who was killed instantly, her sister, Opal Merriman, her brother, Lee Merriman and her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meredith, Mrs. Ethel Merriman, her sister-in-law, was seriously injured and may die.

Chief of Police Claude Worley, ordered the arrests of Merrill and Titus, crews of the interurban, and of Harry Stewart, 38, driver of the truck.

Five bodies were found on the pilot of the interurban car. The car stopped ten poles from the scene of the crash, the poles are ninety feet apart. This was taken as an indication that the car was going between fifty and sixty miles an hour. Many injured were removed in private automobiles and police early today had been unable to definitely determine the total number of injured.

Thirteen Killed Outright. Thirteen of the victims were killed outright. Robert Dallas and Mrs. Frank Meredith died several hours later in a local hospital. Several others of the more seriously injured are not expected to live.

All of the victims lived in Indianapolis. Charles O. Poisel, who was killed outright, was an official of the Indianapolis board of trade.

The demolished trailer was attached to a bus, also crowded with passengers. The bus had cleared the crossing but the trailer was midway on the tracks when the speeding interurban crashed into it.

The front end of the interurban was demolished but only the motorman and conductor were reported hurt.

The truck was owned by the Foster Engineering Service. The motorman, at the City hospital, said he whistled for the crossing and didn't see the truck until he was about 40 feet from it.

BANK ROBBERS ARE CORNERED IN WOODS NEAR MILL CREEK, ILL.

Posse of 100 Ready to Shoot to Kill Fugitives. GET $4,600 LOOT Trapped After They Stage Job in Grand Tower.

MILL CREEK, Ill., Oct. 15.—Three bank robbers, who were cornered in a thick woods near here this morning while more than 100 officers and citizens who have been maintaining a vigil since yesterday afternoon are waiting to shoot to kill the bandits when they are discovered. The trio late yesterday afternoon robbed the First National bank at Grand Tower, Ill., and escaped with between $2,000 and $4,600 in cash.

Sheriff George W. Lyerly of Union county is at the head of the posse which includes deputies from Alexander, Pulaski, Johnson, Jackson and Williamson counties. Sheriff Flanagan of Jackson county and Sheriff Roche of Alexander county are in charge of one cordon of men surrounding the trio.

Mrs. Katherine Ogilvie, widow of William J. Ogilvie, died at 7 o'clock this morning in her home, 251 West Seventh street.

Mrs. Ogilvie, who was of Scotch parentage, and a lifelong resident of Columbiana county, was born at Clark's Mills. She moved with her family to East Liverpool about 30 years ago.

She was a member of the United Presbyterian church and was interested in all the work of the church, especially in missions.

She leaves one son and three daughters, Daniel M. and Grace, Nelle and Eva Ogilvie; one brother, D. A. Mackintosh, and one sister, Mrs. Nancy Rankin.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, in charge of Rev. L. J. Davidson, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

TEAPOT DOME CASE SET FOR MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Principals and supporting cast for what is to go down as one of the outstanding criminal trials in American legal history were assembled in Washington today impatiently awaiting the "Oyez" of the court baillif.

On Monday, former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Harry E. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil operator and turkman, face the bar of justice charged with criminally conspiring to defraud the government of the rich Teapot Dome oil fields of the naval reserve. Both here today cloistered with their "million dollar" array of counsel going over last-minute details and mapping out the strategy of their defense, while a few blocks away Atlee Fomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special federal oil counsel, were completing the last small details of their case.

The affidavit was signed by Henry Lunsford, school attendance officer. Judge Hanley ordered the case continued until 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

MURDER, SUICIDE PLAN FRUSTRATED

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—Despondent because of the death of his wife, David Sells, 38, of Columbus, forced his little daughter, Alberta, 14, to remain in the bathroom of their home here for two hours, while open gas jets brought death nearer to the two of them each instant. The lives of both probably were saved when a friend of Sells entered the house and found both the man and child semi-conscious from inhaling gas. The child had scrawled a note: "Daddy made me close the door and turn on the gas. Goodbye everybody."

Sells was taken to a hospital, where it was said both would recover.

AZORES CHEER AVIATRIX AND HALDEMAN, HER DARING PILOT

Highest Officialdom and Peasants Greet Rescued Flyers. TO GO TO PARIS Steamship Companies Offer Transportation Across Atlantic.

15.—Miss Ruth Elder and George Haldeman arrived here early today aboard the Dutch oil tanker Barndrecht which rescued them at sea when their plane, "American Girl," was forced down due to a broken oil feed.

Alighted Northwest of Fayal. The Barndrecht docked at 8 a. m. Miss Elder and Haldeman were well and appeared rested.

They explained that they came down approximately 380 miles northwest of the island of Fayal, one of the Azores, due principally to the failure of the pressure pump on their plane.

Highest officialdom of the islands, thousands of residents and even peasants from far back in the hills were on hand at the quay when the Barndrecht steamed into port.

Also on hand to meet the daring girl flyer was another of her sex who has gone in for aviation on a transatlantic scale. This was Lillie Dillenz, the Viennese actress who has covered 999 miles of her trans-oceanic flight from Europe to the United States as a passenger on the Junkers plane which arrived here from Lisbon.

It was understood here that Miss Elder and Haldeman will proceed tomorrow to Lisbon and from there go on to Paris, their original destination.

Agents and messages from various steamship companies were here offering the fliers free transportation to either side of the Atlantic.

FRENCHMEN COMPLETE FIRST FLIGHT FROM MAINLAND OF AFRICA TO MAINLAND OF SOUTH AMERICA

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 15.—Dieudonne Costes and Lieutenant Le Brix, French aviators, arrived at Port Natal, Brazil at 12:10 a. m. today, completing the flight from St. Louis, Senegal, from where they hopped off early yesterday.

When the flyers landed they completed the first flight made from the mainland of Africa to the mainland of South America.

Costes disclosed in an interview that propeller trouble developed just off the mainland, and for a time he feared he would have to make a forced landing at sea. The propeller will require repairs which will take several days and hantic was made in very good delay the flight to Rio Janeiro.

The flight across the South Atlantic, the French aviators traveling the 2,125 miles in about 22 hours. From Natal they will fly to Rio De Janeiro and from there will proceed to Buenos Aires, the ultimate destination of their flight.

After their arrival the flyers were welcomed by the governor and taken to the Hotel Central where they were official guests.

Although their start and most of the flight was fine, the aviators said, disaster threatened them when they were almost to their goal. Costes told the international news service: "When we were near the mainland we noticed that something had gone wrong with the propeller. For a time we thought we would be forced down but the motor and the propeller held out and we continued."

"However, we will be unable to fly to Rio de Janeiro Sunday morning as we had planned. It will require several days to repair the propeller."

The flyers said they had seen no ships on their flight and although they heard several radio calls for them, they did not answer as their apparatus was not working well, and it was unnecessary for them to ask for directions.

Costes declared that when the propeller of his plane, "Nungesser-Coll," was repaired, he and Le Brix would fly directly to Rio de Janeiro without going to Pernambuco.

Both flyers were rescued at sea by the Dutch tanker Barndrecht, which was en route to Lisbon.

Feel Stiff and Achy?

To Be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons From the Blood.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? Do you wonder what is wrong?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Active kidneys free the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If you have reason to believe your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them by using a tested diuretic. DOAN'S PILLS have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have established a nationwide reputation. Are recommended the country over. ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR!

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Although Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is the Progressive's candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, the Progressives don't mean by that that they expect the party to put his name at their ticket's head.

All they hope is that he'll have enough delegates to make it very hard for anybody else to win without his help.

In that event the outlook will be mighty bluish for any Old Guard favorite, or even for any dark horse who refuses to commit his administration to a decidedly more "advanced" program than the country's had in many a long year.

IT doesn't look like an impossibility. Uncle George ought to be able to account for Nebraska, North Dakota and Wisconsin solidly, Minnesota, South Dakota and Iowa partially, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri perhaps to some extent, and probably some other scattering votes here and there.

All in all, he may take a pretty good bloc of votes into the convention—maybe not a decisive bloc, but a sufficient number to be well worth a hard-pressed candidate's while to bid for substantially.

UNCLE GEORGE will be a difficult old man for a politician of the regular school to deal with.

He'll demand farm relief—whatever that is—of course. That would be all right for either of the notable farm relievers, Frank O. Lowden and Vice President Dawes—as far as it goes. Outside the subject of farm relief, however, both Lowden and Dawes are as orthodox as any "down easter" could ask. Uncle George, on the other hand, has been overheard making scurrilous remarks about the "robber tariff."

Herbert Hoover's against Uncle George's brand of farm relief. Charles Evans Hughes and the Nebraska senator might as well belong to two violent opposing parties, for all the things they agree on.

IT'S going to strain the leading regular Republican candidates' political consciences considerably, then, to come to any sort of terms with Uncle George.

Yet it's surprising what pledges a candidate can see his way clear to give, when they mean the difference between his victory and his defeat. Senator Norris is a hard bargainer. He doesn't want any of the things it usually is possible to satisfy a public man with, in order to get him to sit down and he roars and snorts, bawling the party managers with his nagging. He doesn't care shucks for office.

The Nebraska Progressives had all they could do to persuade him to run for the senate last time. He could have a cabinet job in a minute, if it would keep him quiet. An ambassador isn't supposed to chew tobacco, and Uncle George does, but he could be one, to any court in Europe, if that would satisfy him.

But no. Uncle George has these boll-shev-EEK-ky theories, and they're all he's interested in.

IF the Republican convention turns out to be a onesided affair—if some candidate succeed in corraling enough votes to nominate him early in the game and his name goes through a-king—Uncle George and his farm belt cohorts will simply be spectators—rather foolish looking ones, too, in the midst of all the Old Guard rejoicings.

In the meantime Uncle George chews tobacco and says nothing.

More Scope for Prison Labor. Finance Minister Mitsuchi of Japan has proposed to the government a plan for using the labor of prison inmates more extensively. The plan is to train the prisoners in a more systematic and practical way in factory and architectural work so that their services may be employed for the general manufacturing and construction purposes of the country. Experimental training so far given to some prisoners is so reassuring in results that several government institutions have been built by this prison labor.

PERFORMANCE OF NEW JORDAN AIR LINE EIGHT THRILLS PUBLIC

Hair trigger acceleration, brilliant speed and hill climbing are astounding

Five to forty miles an hour in high gear in twelve and a half seconds

Top speed still undetermined as speedometer hits stop pin at eighty-two miles an hour

AEROPLANE characteristics have now been applied for the first time to an automobile motor, in the new Jordan Air Line Eight—marking a very definite turning point in all previous standards of motor car performance.

Results are truly amazing!

Without adding a pound of weight to the car, Jordan and Continental engineers, working with Stromberg aeroplane carburetion experts have increased horse power 33% and torque 21%.

The result, translated into performance and every day utility, represents the greatest single advance that has been made in fifteen years.

The car can be driven as fast as anyone but a race driver would dare to drive an automobile. Hills that never before have been negotiated in high gear can now be conquered with ease. Get-away in traffic is actually startling.

A specially constructed chassis, carefully balanced, and built of the finest materials carries the greatly increased power and speed without vibration, without side sway or "shimmy."

The duplex aerotype system of carburetion automatically adjusts itself to meet varying conditions of temperature and altitude, eliminating the necessity of changing carburetor adjustments during seasonal variations.

Bohnalite pistons and Lanchester torsion neutralizer give an instant and velvet smooth response to the slightest pressure on the accelerator.

The heaviest crankshaft Jordan has ever used, made of selected, double heat treated steel and machined all over is balanced to a hair line.

A new and patented steering gear of the hour glass worm type almost handles the car unaided.

Bodies by custom designers, are of the new high-waisted design, so popular abroad.

Long chrome vanadium springs covering over 80% of the wheel base and controlled by Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers front and rear, give a soft wave-like riding sensation over the roughest roads.

Appointments in quiet good taste. Optional upholstery in broadcloth or mohair. A wide choice of striking new colors.

Hydraulic four wheel brakes—Air-Maze air cleaner—oil filter—gas filter—Tilt Ray headlights—combination ignition and wheel lock—sixty-five distinctive features in all, are combined in this new companion of the Little Custom Jordan.

Trains Win Races To Crossings

Columbiana county added another railroad crossing fatality to the nation's total for 1927, when a Hanoverton farmer was killed and his wife injured in a crash in Salem Thursday afternoon. The victim, according to his widow, who is in a hospital suffering from injuries she received, failed to see an oncoming Fort Wayne division passenger train as he drove his automobile onto the tracks.

According to figures announced at the sixteenth annual Safety Congress in Chicago last month, more than 1,000 automobiles last year crashed into trains. And of the 7,090 persons killed in connection with the operation of steam railways, 2,388, or 33.7 per cent, were classified as trespassers on the right of way. In other words, according to M. O. Lorenz, director of the interstate commerce commission's bureau of statistics, more than 70 per cent of the railroad fatalities occurred because people, other than passengers or employees on duty, were on the right of way at the wrong time.

And here are other startling figures: Of 2,623 trespassers whose lives were snuffed out by train, 196 were children under 14 years of age and 255 persons from 14 to 21 years.

At the close of last year, there were 27,847 protected and 206,433 unprotected highway grade crossings with steam railroads. And Columbiana county has its share of dangerous crossings which should be eliminated or more adequately protected if the appalling toll in train-automobile collisions is to be decreased.

Russian Trade Methods

An American business man who went to Russia lately to investigate business methods was shocked at what he found. His report is likely to throw a shock into almost any American.

The retail business in Russia is carried on mainly through co-operative stores, of which there are 45,000 scattered throughout the country. They do no advertising. Their goods are sold at a very slight percentage above cost. The clerks in charge don't try to sell anything, but merely deal out merchandise, which arrives in the morning and is usually gone by noon.

There is a shortage of textiles especially. For drygoods and various other kinds of goods there is always a waiting line. A woman has to stand for hours to buy cotton cloth for a dress, and then finds that she can get only a yard or two and may have to come back several times to obtain enough for a complete dress.

Those "co-ops" always seem to be taking inventory. The process sometimes lasts for weeks, and during that time no goods whatever are sold. The inventory has to be checked and approved by government officials before the store can be opened again.

So there is more plain dumbness than redness about merchandising in Russia. Bolshevism shows itself inefficient alike in production and distribution. The menace, such as it is, is not much of a menace except to Russia herself. She is the victim of her own inefficiency, and that is something other nations are not likely to copy.

Federal Tax Reduction

A special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which of course has no connection with the government but which ably represents American business in general, calls for a $400,000,000 federal tax reduction.

So that is what American business wants. It seems to be, too, what the American public wants. There is room for argument about the amount, but everybody favors tax reduction. There is no other cause just now that is so popular.

The Chamber of Commerce people want the cut applied chiefly to corporation taxes, which is probably reasonable enough. Personal income taxes have gone down in recent years while business income taxes have actually been raised. The corporation tax, of course, is usually passed along to the consumer in the price of goods. If a cut from 13 1/2 to 10 per cent were passed along likewise, everybody would share in the benefit, and the corporations would have easier bookkeeping, if nothing more.

As for the "death duties," inheritance taxes paid by the wealthy, there may be more question about complete elimination, but few would object to a reduction.

Some inequalities might well be ironed out of the personal tax schedules, and an elimination of the last remaining amusement and other "nuisance taxes" would be welcomed.

Smaller Pianos

A convention of "music merchants" reveals the fact that there is a new movement in pianos. "Movement" is the word. Pianos are getting smaller all the time, and "baby uprights" are so light now that they can be shoved around almost as easily as a vacuum sweeper.

This is an enormous gain to the housekeeper, who never used to be able to move the piano without calling in a couple of husky male assistants and getting the floor all marked up. Anyone who has observed how women love to move furniture will appreciate the change. Likewise moving from house to house is facilitated. And if present tendencies continue, eventually it will be possible to carry around a piano in the family car.

It's a gain to the piano business, too, because people will buy more of the small, light instruments. The piano market, which was threatened by mechanical music, takes on new life.

Amundsen says that, since the earth only has two poles, and he's seen them both, there's nothing left for him to do. He might try poking around inside.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A prowling about the shores of Manhattan Bay and Hempstead Harbor probably uncovers more celebrities than the entire lengths of Broadway and Fifth Avenue. This is the theatrical and literary colony of Great Neck—called Grotto by smart crackers.

Along one shore will be found the homes of Raymond Hitchcock, Eddie Cantor, Arthur Hopkins, Gene Buck, Clarence Buddington Kelland, Jack Hazzard, Neysa McMein, Jane Cowl, Max Fisman and Leslie Howard. Most Great Neckers—a half hour from Broadway—live there the year around. They thrill to this slightly remote rusticity. A stranger walking along favorite figures loitering in the garden, sprinkling the lawn, painting the garage, cutting grass or performing other simple tasks.

On the other shore side live P. Scott Fitzgerald, Lew Fields, Herbert B. Swope, Ring Lardner, George Coahan, Tom Meighan, Edgar Selwyn, Ernest Truex, Sam Harris, Ed Wynn, Frank Craven, Ernest Glendinning, Frances Alda, Jesse Livermore, Tad and Quinn Martin.

Across the Sound on either shore of the Hempstead Harbor the estates are a little more tony. Here reside W. R. Coe, Irving Berlin's father-in-law, C. Oliver Iselin, Solomon Guggenheim, Vincent Astor, and many others with heavy purses. The late Marous Loew lived there, also. Most of these residents have backyard bathing beaches—known as outdoor bath tubs. Despite their apparent affluence, the village touch is pronounced. The local barbershop is the meeting place. Every home is equipped with a radio. And people peek on the front porch of evenings.

Croquet grounds are numerous and porch checker games are a common diversion. A census recently showed 90 per cent of the Great Neckers are of small town origin.

Wilton Lackey has long been regarded as keener of the Lambis club wits. Quite often a newer generation of wise crackers attempt to unhorse the old master. They receive a verbal plon on the bezer resembling the resounding skush of the flying brick in the comic strip. The other evening one whose record on a sinking liner did not achieve a hero medal, became particularly annoying. He challenged Mr. Lackey to billiards, chess and this and that and wound

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Memorable Anniversary.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Within the week, Greeks who are in Greece, or in the United States, or wherever they may be will do a lot of flag waving.

Up with: "I can beat you at anything you suggest."

Doubtless, including a race for monuments, drawn by Mr. Lackey.

Broadway is now intent on curbing another polite eppery, now that some progress has been made against theatre ticket and covert gouges. The guns are aimed this time at the table water prices in cafes and night clubs. These bottled beverages cost an average of six cents a bottle. They are sold anywhere from 60 cents to $1.25. In many hotels prices rise after 4 o'clock when the highball demand is heavier. The method is simple in the effort to reduce the price. Patrons are mixing highballs in plain water. An organization known as the Plain Water Club is, anyway, having more fun with the idea. Even if the cafe and hotel men cannot see the joke.

Sign on an Avenue A house: "Rooms for rent—with or without garage." Figure that one out.

A Broadway spy reports Al Johnson, after many years of singing mummy songs, went to California to have his knees lifted.

I often wonder how black-face comedians who smear themselves an ebony black nightly remove the stuff so quickly. I remember seeing a curtain drop on Johnson at the Winter Garden with his face and hands black as coal. Fifteen minutes later he came into a supper club, immaculately dressed and his complexion its usual color.

ing and otherwise disport themselves in a manner indicating great joy. The occasion will be the 100th anniversary, on October 20, of the battle of Navarino bay.

To the world at large this anniversary recalls one of the decisive battles of history and the last major engagement that was fought between sailing vessels. To the Greeks it is virtually the centennial of their independence.

Americans will be interested not only because of their sympathy with an oppressed and a long struggling people, but because one of the principals in the spectacular affair was a participant in equally stirring events in this country, but was not so fortunate in the final result.

Briefly, the battle of Navarino bay was an engagement between a British-Franco-Russian fleet and a Turco-Egyptian fleet in the sheltered waters of a harbor off the southern peninsula of Greece. It was fought, primarily, because all Europe was aroused over the manner in which Turkey, with the cooperation of an army and a fleet from Egypt, was overrunning Greece and committing atrocities of an unprecedented nature. The Turco-Egyptians, although far superior in ships and guns, were overwhelmingly defeated, and Grecian independence thereupon became a tangible reality.

Incidentally, it may be stated, the battle of Navarino bay was fought when nobody concerned really wanted to fight, when no declaration of war had been made by either side, when the Turco-Egyptian commander, as saved a double-cross, and when a British admiral elected to obey one-half of his orders and to ignore the other half. And that admiral almost got himself court-martined as a result.

How it All Came About. A century and more ago the Greeks were waging a desperate war for independence from Turkey and they were being subjected to a disciplinary warfare that featured all the atrocities of which the Turk is capable. Egypt was at that time a vassal state of Turkey and the army that was overrunning Greece was largely made up of Egyptians, as was the fleet that had taken possession of Grecian waters, while the commander of both land and sea forces was Ibrahim Pasha, a son of the Viceroy of Egypt.

All Europe was horrified over the ruthless treatment the Greeks were being accorded, but the only nation that seemed disposed to do anything about it was Russia. The Czar made preparations to intervene on the side of the Greeks and let it be known that such was his purpose.

It was a foregone conclusion that this intervention would be successful and that Russia would emerge with a commanding position in the Levant, as the Near East was then known, and probably with possession of Constantinople. That was a prospect that caused the cold chills to run up and down every British spine, and to forestall it England made diplomatic overtures to Russia that led to the signing of a protocol in St. Petersburg in 1826, the nub of which was an agreement that Russia should not intervene in Greece until England, France, and Russia could agree upon a program of concerted action.

In July of the following year the three nations signed a treaty, known as the treaty of London, the purpose of which was to bring about the concerted action that would drive the Turks out of Greece, although there were no avowed of drastic measures that would be taken to bring that about. A secret understanding was reached, however, that the Mediterranean fleets of the three nations should combine to make a demonstration of force that was expected to overawe the Sultan, the Bad Man of Europe. Sir Edward Cordington was in command of the British fleet, Chevalier de Rigny was the French admiral, and Count Heyden the Russian. By virtue of his seniority the first named was made the Allied commander.

An Armistice Demanded. The first thing the Allies did was to demand an armistice by the belligerents. The Greeks agreed to it readily, but Ibrahim Pasha said he would have to hear from home before he could stop fighting. He said he would send a couple of brigades to Constantinople and to Alexandria to get the word and he promised that meanwhile he would keep his fleet in Navarino bay and commit no overt act. The Allied admirals assented to that arrangement and went on about their business.

promise and tried to sneak out of the bay with part of his fleet. Admiral Cordington headed him off and sent him back, and then it was up to the Allies to do whatever they were going to do.

The British admiral found himself in a rather embarrassing situation. His orders from his government were, in substance, "force the Greeks and the Turks to stop fighting, but do not use force in so doing." Happily he could interpret his orders as he chose, and he decided to obey the first part and ignore the second.

Accordingly on October 20, 1827, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Allied fleet sailed into Navarino bay. It numbered 27 vessels with 1,270 guns. The Turco-Egyptian fleet consisted of 89 vessels of 2,000 guns, but in less than four hours not one of those ships remained afloat. All had been sunk or driven ashore. The Allies did not lose a single ship and their losses in killed and wounded were less than 600 men, while the Turks lost between 11,000 and 12,000 men.

It was a tremendous victory and its effects were far-reaching. Within a short time the Turks were forced to withdraw from Greece, the Greeks gained their independence, and the war of 1828 between Russia and Turkey was precipitated.

In celebrating the 100th anniversary of the battle the Greeks will have elaborate ceremonies at Athens and at Pylos, on Navarino bay, and they will lay the first stone of a monument to the three admirals to whom they are so deeply indebted. Both England and France are sending fleets to Navarino to participate in the celebration, and the British official representative will be General Sir Alfred Cordington, a great grandson of the admiral who commanded the Allied fleet.

That admiral it was who saw service in the United States during the War of 1812. He was with the British forces that captured Washington, commanded the British flagship in the attack upon the forts at Baltimore, and was at New Orleans when Andrew Jackson put the finishing touches on the war. He did not, however, win or assist in winning any such victories as that he was later to win at Navarino.

It may be noted, also, that the battle of Navarino bay was not only the last major engagement of sailing vessels, but it was fought in practically the same place where the last great battle of galleys was fought, and within a short distance of the place where the first battle in which steam vessels participated was fought later, off Sinope in the Black Sea, in 1853.

POSTOFFICE CLERKS AND CARRIERS ARE GUESTS AT CHARLES WOOLEY HOME

Birthday Anniversary of Host is Celebrated With Surprise Dinner in Oak Street Residence.

Honoring the birthday anniversary of Charles Wooley, a number of the clerks and carriers of the local post-office surprised him Thursday evening in his home in Oak street. A 6 o'clock dinner was served by the honor guest's wife, assisted by his daughters, Misses Ila and Erma Wooley.

The after-dinner diversions were singing and instrumental music.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Myler, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Conkle, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Wilkin, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hillyer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wooley and daughters, Misses Ila and Erma Wooley; Messrs. Howard Hillyer, John W. Johnson, George Peters, Harold Galimore, Leonard Schepp, Ernest Apel, Harry Shone, Francis Shone and Thomas Peterson.

Temperance Legion Meeting.

The Ceramic Loyol Temperance Legion met last evening in the social room of the First Church of Christ. Miss Hazel Stillwagon was in charge of the program, which was as follows: Devotional, Miss Ruth King; piano solo, Miss Evelyn Wetrink; reading, Miss Fern Stillwagon; piano solo, Miss Dorothy King; recitation, "Smiles," Miss Mildred Shaw.

Refreshments were served by Misses Millicent Wolfe and Ada Nicklin.

The next session will be held in the home of Miss Mary Kountz, the date to be announced later.

Star of Bethlehem Lodge Party.

Star of Bethlehem lodge entertained with a euchre party last evening in the Sons of Veterans hall, East Sixth street. Eight tables were in play. Trophies were awarded Mesdames Sylvia Clark, James Cross and Anna Stanley; Messrs. J. H. Collins, Charles Hoyt, and Samuel Hancock.

Refreshments were served by the social committee, of which Mrs. Janet Hardie was chairlady.

Mrs. Mary Anderson Entertains.

Mrs. Mary Anderson pleasantly entertained a group of friends in her home on McKinnon avenue Thursday afternoon, with a 1 o'clock luncheon, honoring Mrs. W. E. JACK MULHALL AT AMERICAN

Dorothy Mackaill Also Featured in "Crystal Cup."

Only in extremely simple plots can the motion picture reach intense dramatic heights.

So believes Henry Hobart, producer of First National's "The Crystal Cup," which comes to the American theatre here Monday for an engagement of three days.

Many worthwhile film stories, the producer believes, are appreciably lessened in dramatic value because of an overly complicated plot. The essential drama is weakened because of the necessity of wasting the greater part of the space available in a picture of ordinary length of irrelevant explanations.

Too many characters in a story make for the same difficulty in introducing them and keeping them from being confused in the mind of the audience.

"The Crystal Cup," based on Gertrude Atherton's daring novel of the same name, is simplicity itself, and

WELLSVILLE POLICE ARREST THREE MEN IN CRASH

15-MILE CHASE IN AUTOS ENDS IN SALINEVILLE

McConnellsville Motorists Held After Collision on Cemetery Hill

FULTZ WINS RACE

Mrs. Earl Ward and Family Narrowly Escape Injuries.

Following a 15-mile chase that ended in Salineville, Chief of Police John Futz and Patrolman John Duncan arrested M. O. Risberg, Daniel Lynch, and George Hunt, all of McConnellsville, O., last night at 8:30 o'clock after the trio, driving west, had crashed into a car occupied by Mrs. Earl Ward and family, of west end, near the foot of Cemetery hill.

Risberg, at the wheel of the fleeing machine when the arrest was made, will face a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated and Hunt and Lynch charges of intoxication when they appear before Mayor W. L. Fogo for hearings tonight.

The Ward car, driven by Ralph Ward, was enroute down Cemetery hill when the Risberg machine started up. Ward's automobile was proceeding slowly. The impact threw the local people's car against the curbing and for a time it was feared it would topple over the steep embankment. None was injured.

Occupants of the Ward machine immediately communicated with Mayor W. L. Fogo.

Chief Futz and Officer Duncan, in the chief's car, then pursued the McConnellsville trio to Salineville.

MISSION GROUP NAMES OFFICERS

Officers of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Free Methodist church, Seventeenth street, were elected for the ensuing year at the annual business meeting Thursday evening in the church.

Mrs. L. C. Andre, wife of the pastor, was named president and mission study secretary.

Other officers are: Vice president and young people's superintendent, Mrs. Daisy Ewing; secretary, Mrs. Jessie Donaldson; superintendent of juniors, Mrs. Hazel Roberts; home department superintendent, Mrs. Julia Pringle; missionary cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. John Burns; treasurer, Mrs. S. L. Fish; missionary tidings agent, Mrs. Lydia Smyers.

SEEK MARSHALL BILL SUPPORT

Plea for support of the Marshall bill, which will be voted on at a referendum November 8, and the organization of a campaign in behalf of the legislation here will be made at a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the First Christian church.

The speakers will be V. A. "Pete" Schrieber, superintendent of the Canton district Anti-Saloon league, and C. F. Bough, of West Point, head of the Columbiana County Law Enforcement league.

The Marshall bill puts the village mayors and justices of the peace on a salary basis and eliminates the fee system of collection in dry law offenses.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The industrial and specialty stocks which led Friday's closing rally continued to move upward at the beginning of trading today. Stocks of the mercantile companies and the Nickel Plate railroad group were in good demand at a higher range of prices.

Payments to American investors today, in the form of investment on government and corporate bonds, reached the huge total of $300,000,000, a good portion of which flowed back to investment channels. Buying of the better grade of dividend stocks was in evidence at the start, and most of the activities of the first period centered around the steel, motor and manufacturing stocks. Aggressive forward movements were continued in General Asphalt, Radio, American Can, National Biscuit and other of yesterday's star performers.

The week-end business reports noted satisfactory improvement in strategic lines of trade since the end of the third quarter. Dun's review reported indications of a forward movement in business before the end of the month. Textile, leather and building trades are keeping their forces well occupied, and the agricultural yield of spring wheat and other important crops is satisfactory.

In view of the prevailing impression that this is a "distributing" market, traders were not disposed to add very heavily to their commitments, particularly in the speculative favorites which have been skyrocketing with little or no interruption in the last three months. Price changes were therefore narrow in stock of this class.

HIGH GRIDDERS AT LEETONIA

Expect to Hang up Second Straight Win.

Coach Earl Klinck's high school football squad is confident of chalking up their second win of the season when they take on the Leetonia eleven this afternoon at Leetonia.

Last year the Orange and Black licked the Leetonians by a count of 28 to 0 and will extend every effort to equal or surpass this figure today.

Leetonia turned in a 12-0 conquest over Salineville a week ago, emerging in good shape from the game and counting on giving the locals a keen scrap.

The next game on the local schedule will be a home attraction with Mingo Junction furnishing the opposition.

Only the Perfected Whippet has all these Vital 1928 Advantages

In the perfected Whippet you may now see the advantages which are characteristic of the modern trend in light car design.

More than 125,000 owners have driven more than 400,000,000 miles. 45% tell us they chose the Whippet for its unequalled economy; 46% were influenced by the greater safety of BIG 4-wheel brakes; others mention its comfort and roominess; still others its attractive, modern design with such features as low center of gravity, full-vision body, force-feed lubrication and silent timing chain.

Through the friendly suggestions of these loyal owners it has been possible to develop the finer Willys-Overland Whippet of today. We invite you to see and drive this modern car.

The most economical light car. Whippet holds the A. A. A. Coast-to-Coast economy record.

BIG 4-wheel brakes make Whippet the safest light car.

Narrow front body posts eliminate the "blind spot" hazard and permit clearer vision.

Over-size balloon tires and genuine Gabriel Snubbers insure smoother riding.

Whippet affords appreciably greater leg room than any other light car.

STOLEN FRUIT

I PASSED a farmer's orchard And was suddenly possessed By memories of my childhood days When stolen fruits seemed best.

I slipped across the wooden fence And stole a peach or two, But all the time my conscience cried, "Why, this is wrong to do!"

The stolen fruit seemed tasteless, My fingers turned to ice. So I hunted up the farmer And I paid top-market price!

LESSON

Exposing Official Corruption

General Lesson Title—Elijah in Naboth's Vineyard.
Scripture Lesson—1 Kings 21 (Verses 5-10, 16-20 Printed).
Golden Text—Be sure your sin will find you out.—Num. 32: 23b.

1 Kings 21, 5-10, 16-20.

5 But Jezebel his wife came to him and said unto him, Why is thy spirit so sad, that thou eatest no bread?

6 And he said unto her, Because I spake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, and said unto him, Give me thy vineyard for money; or else, if it please thee, I will give thee another vineyard for it; and he answered, I will not give thee my vineyard.

7 And Jezebel his wife said unto him, Dost thou now govern the kingdom of Israel? arise, and eat bread, and let thy heart be merry; I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8 So she wrote letters in Ahab's name, and sealed them with his seal, and sent the letters unto the elders and to the nobles that were in his city; and that dwelt with Naboth.

9 And she wrote in the letters, saying, Proclaim a fast, and set Naboth on high among the people:

10 And set two men, base fellows, before him, and let them bear witness against him, saying, Thou didst curse God and the king. And then carry him out, and stone him to death.

16 And it came to pass, when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab rose up to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it.

17 And the word of Jehovah came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

18 Arise, go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who dwelleth in Samaria; behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, whither he is gone to take possession of it.

19 And thou shalt speak unto him, saying, Thus saith Jehovah, Hast thou killed, and also taken possession? And thou shalt speak unto him saying, Thus saith Jehovah, In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth shall dogs lick thy blood, even thine.

20 And Ahab said to Elijah, Hast thou found me, O mine enemy? And he answered, I have found thee, because thou hast sold thyself to do that which is evil in the sight of Jehovah.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST

Soon after He cured the centurions servant, He came to the city called Nain, and His disciples went with Him and a great multitude of people.

When He neared the city, there was carried out one that was dead, the only son of a widowed mother. When Jesus saw her He had compassion on her and said, "Weep not," and He came nigh and touched the bier and He said, "Young man, I say unto thee, Arise!"

And he that was dead sat up and began to speak. And Christ gave him to his mother.

And the people glorified God saying, "A Great Prophet is arisen amongst us."

MAJOR AND MRS. W. A. NOBLE, HOSPITAL WORKERS IN INDIA, SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

Missionary Rallies to be Conducted in Salvation Army Citadel and First United Presbyterian Church.

Major and Mrs. William A. Noble, who have been connected with the Catherine Booth hospital at Nagercoil, India, for about seven years, will speak at two rallies Sunday in the Salvation Army citadel, Third street, in the interest of missionary work. The addresses will be illustrated with stereopticon.

Besides the citadel meetings, scheduled for 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m., they will speak at services in the First United Presbyterian church, Sixth and Jefferson streets, at 7:30 p. m.

Members of the East End and Beechwood outposts will unite in the afternoon service at the Army citadel.

Missionary Worker. Sunday evening service at the Salvation Army citadel will be dispensed with so as not to conflict with Major Noble's appearance at the United Presbyterian church.

Major Noble, who is a physician, is connected with the Salvation Army in his missionary work in India. He has the record of having performed 1,500 operations in a year at the Catherine Booth hospital and its seven branches. The branch hospitals with one exception are within a 50 miles radius of the Nagercoil institution. One is about 200 miles distant.

The hospital, which nestles by the blue waters of a beautiful lagoon, covers six acres of land, and is set as a little city by itself among the crude villages, rice fields, tobacco plantations and forests of coconut palms, wild jungle belts and the rural, tropical scenes associated with south India and its almost countless little hamlets.

Operates Modern Hospital. It has its own water supply and generates its own power for lighting, X-ray and other work. In addition to two general wards for men and three for women and an out-patient's block, there are two blocks of private wards. The rigid caste system of the country make it necessary for each of these private wards to be fitted with separate bath rooms and kitchens. The whole building is fitted according to the latest ideas of hospital equipment, and has ample laboratory, pathological X-ray, dispensary, dental clinic, drug store, hydro and other facilities. It also boasts a wing set apart expressly for women.

Dr. Noble is one of the council of three, who direct the Travencore State Medical service, and is the only unofficial member. The usual nature of his appointment means that his Indian associates must deal with more than a few rulers of high estate but by leading government officials.

When the son of the Maha Ranee, regent of Travencore, was stricken with sickness that seemed to spell certain death, and the efforts of a number of other medical men on his behalf were fruitless, the administration of the Salvationist missionary effected a complete cure. This has not only brought high prestige to the major, but has securely enshrined him

"Tell me a Story"

All of the school children were going around to the houses asking for old newspapers. The teachers wanted to see who could bring the largest bundle of papers to school. They were going to sell these papers and use the money to buy a beautiful new form for the school.

The bigger boys worked fast and furiously for an hour or so after school. Then they decided that they had more papers than any one else could get—and went on about their playing.

Now Peter had only been in school two weeks. He was a little First Grader—and he did want SO much to bring in the largest bundle of papers. So he went up and down the street with his wagon—long after the others had stopped. He even called on several people after dinner.

My! but his legs were tired when he got into bed that night!

But you should have seen his bundle of papers the next day! It was the very largest one in the whole school! All the boys and girls were surprised—and Peter was a happy boy!

The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong—Ecc. 9:11.

ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends.

Ye are my friends, if ye do what soever I command you.

Henceforth I call you not servants, for ye know that ye have called me, but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you.—St. John xv, 12-15.

FACTS ABOUT PENNLIT MOTOR OILS

The Best Motor Oil Buy on the Market Today.

—Characteristically greater resistance to heat. That means low consumption under extreme heat.
—Free-flowing tendency at normal starting temperature. That means a ready supply of oil at every point.
—Least "breakdown" or thinning out when heated. That means safest body and oiliness at efficient operating temperatures.
Put these all together—you get a more efficient piston seal, greater power, minimum dilution, and decreased gasoline consumption. No wonder experts call Pennsylvania "The highest grade oil in the world!"

"The highest grade oil in the world"—pure Pennsylvania oil. So called because throughout the world it performs difficult lubrication jobs that no other oil will do so well—and in some cases, jobs which no other oil can do at all.

That is why the producers, refiners and marketers of pure Pennsylvania oil are working shoulder to shoulder, as an association, to protect this reputation.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "HONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

"You're here looking for a job, aren't you, Mr. Davidson?" Sally asked bluntly, still holding him by the lapel of his new brown coat. "And I don't want you to do it!"

Davy Davidson stared at her, dumb with surprise. He could not make her out.

There was a girl who was altogether new in his experience of girls who worked in offices. A girl who was not only as smart as a whip, but pretty, too! As pretty as a flower and as young as April. Only he did not put it to himself in just those words. Mr. Davidson was no poet.

Until he met Sally he had been able to put all the girls he knew into two classes—those who were clever and homely, and those who were beautiful and dumb.

But Sally fell into one class. "She has everything," Mr. Davidson said to himself slungly. "Looks and brains and pep."

He pulled himself together and asked aloud just why Sally did not want him to work for the "John Nye Real Estate company."

It did not take Sally long to tell him why.

"It wouldn't do," she said with decision. "You and Millie have been friends for so long that you just couldn't work together. You'd be sitting around, talking to each other all day instead of working. And Millie and Mr. Nye get along so well that I hate to think of anything spoiling things here."

Davidson stared at her, his brows knotted in a frown.

"I don't get you," he told her after a minute. "But it's perfectly clear to me that you don't want me here, for some good reason of your own. So—thank you."

He laughed, showing very nice, white teeth in a good-natured grin.

"I guess I can still struggle along selling bonds," he said cheerfully. "But Millie talked this game up to me, and made me promise to come up here and talk it over with Nye."

"That sounds as if Millie has been seeing him lately," thought Sally. "While she's been pretending to be all wrapped up in John Nye." That certainly was not what Ted Sloan would have called "square shooting."

Then, once more, her promise to Millie flashed into her mind.

"You won't forget to see Millie in the hospital, will you?" she asked, holding out her little hardened hand in farewell. "Mother drops in every day at 4 o'clock. Why don't you go then?"

He seemed to be thinking it over still holding her hand in his well-cared-for one.

"Well, perhaps I will," he was beginning, and then his face brightened and sharpened. "I'll tell you—we'll make a deal. I'll go to the hospital at 4 o'clock if you'll come at 6 and let me drive you home."

"All right. I think Mr. Peevey will let me leave early, for once," replied the girl. "I'll be there at 5. They like you to go then, because it's time for the patients to have their suppers—trays an get settled down for the night."

"Five then." And he was gone, triumphant and pleased with himself in his new brown fall suit, swinging his hat and his cherry-wood cane.

Sally went back into the office to see that everything was as it should be.

The smooth sunlit surface of the glass and brown mahogany seemed to smile up at her in a friendly way. She smoothed her hand across the top of John Nye's desk. She loved to touch it, because his lean, narrow tanned hands had lain upon it.

The door opened and he came in. Before the door had closed behind him Sally's heart was leaping, thudding against her ribs as it always did when she first saw him, at the beginning of the day.

"Good morning. How are you today?" he asked, looking straight at her and then at his desk.

Anyone but a blind man could have seen that the work Sally had put upon the straightening of that desk and all the drawers of it, was a labor of love.

"Your Papa's coming," she cried tremulously.

Love that does all things with a little touch of magic.

But John Nye was in love with Millie, and they say that love is blind. So he simply dropped down into his chair and picked up his neatly opened letters. He reached for one of the pencils that she had sharpened so beautifully and began to tap his teeth with it thoughtfully as he went over his mail.

His day began.

In the outer office at her little desk sat Sally, staring out of the window at the blue sky and the slow smoke spirals that curled across it, and for once she was rebellious. Rebellious—Sally, whose watchword in life was: "I serve."

"I might be the photograph, for all the notice he takes of me!" she said to herself, grimly, and then, almost at once, she mentally tapped herself to order.

"Here! What am I thinking about? I didn't come here to make him notice me. I came to do Millie's work until she is able to come back here to this man who loves her."

She told it to herself as bluntly as that, and all morning she worked harder than as if she had been doing piece-work in a factory instead of elegantly typing letters in a luxurious office.

At five minutes after 5 she ran up the steps of the hospital.

'BARBED WIRE' RINGS BELL

Picture at Ceramic is Pola Negri's Greatest.

From a standpoint of pure artistry and perfection of film technique, "Barbed Wire," Pola Negri's new starring vehicle, which opened last night at the Ceramic theatre, has been called the outstanding motion picture of recent film history.

"Barber Wire" wins this rank first and last because it portrays life as it is; because it is a story based on the most dramatic incident of all time, the world war; and because it is not a war picture in the sense most commonly accepted.

It treats of a phase of the conflict heretofore untouched, of the life of German soldiers in a prison camp in France. "Barbed Wire" is an adaptation of Hall Caine's great novel, "The Woman of Knockaloe." The powerful story has lost nothing in its transition to the screen; rather it has gained.

Pola Negri is superb as Mona, the peasant girl who is irresistibly attracted to love Oskar, a prisoner in the camp near her home. In spite of the first bitter hatred she feels toward the enemy of her country. Once more she is the Pola Negri of "Gypsy Love" and of "Passion" her two sensational European-made successes.

This is because Miss Negri was surrounded by the perfect staff, the perfect cast for the production of his new picture. Erich Pommer, who made "The Last Laugh" and "Variety," and more recently, "Hotel Imperial," was co-producer with Rowland V. Lee, who directed.

Clive Brook, one of the best of Paramounts leading men and Einar Hanson, the young Swedish actor, appear in able support of the great star. Brook plays the part of Oskar while Hanson is cast as Mona's brother, who is called away to war.

Claude Gillingwater, the veteran character actor, gives a wonderful performance as the Father and Gustav von Seyffertitz as the cold-hearted Neighbor leaves nothing to be desired in the way of villainy.

SIX DIVORCES
GRANTED HERE

Decrees Issued After Hearing Before Judge
W. F. Lones.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted the plaintiff in the case of Myra E. Clark against her husband, Hubert Clark. Custody of two children has been awarded Mrs. Clark.

Extreme cruelty was charged in the divorce action filed by Gladys Franklin against her husband, Sydney Franklin, and a decree awarded the plaintiff on these grounds. The custody of a minor child, which was sought in the petition has also been awarded by the court to the plaintiff.

Habitual drunkenness and extreme cruelty were set up in the divorce petition filed by Wylenea McCowin against her husband, Harry D. McCowin, July 18th last. The customary number of witnesses went before the court to testify in this case, and a decree was awarded the plaintiff.

The court found Malva R. Marlett guilty of gross neglect of duty, in the alimony petition filed against him by his wife, L. Edna Marlett, and has ordered Marlett to pay his wife $6 per week. The custody of a minor child has been awarded to Mrs. Marlett. This petition has been pending in common pleas court since July 9 last.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, LeRoy Kennedy has been granted a decree of divorce against his wife, Bertha J. Kennedy, the petition in this case having been made a matter of record July 9 last. The custody of a minor child was awarded the plaintiff.

Adda Dillon filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against her husband, James Dillon, May 25 last. She charged her husband with gross neglect of duty, and a decree was awarded the plaintiff on these grounds. Mrs. Dillon has had her maiden name restored, that of Adda Mercer.

Marriage License.

A marriage license was issued to William E. Sitter of Salem and Miss Sarah E. Hayes of Columbiana. They were married at Lisbon by Justice M. K. Zimmerman.

UNION CHURCH
MEET SCHEDULED

A union meeting of members of all churches in Lisbon will be held at the Lisbon Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Miss Grace L. Scott, a state speaker for the W. C. T. U. and secretary of the Ohio State Morality league, will speak. The music for this gathering will be furnished by the Girls' Glee club of the Lisbon high school.

Alimony Order Issued.

William J. Wark of Salem, defendant in an action in alimony filed recently in common pleas court against him by his wife, Rine Wark, has been ordered to pay his wife $50 at once, and also $30 weekly hereafter for her support and that of a minor. The latter payment is to be made each week.

The court, however, has also issued an order requiring the plaintiff to pay her own house rental.

Case Appealed.

Merle Miller obtained a judgment by default for $200 in the court of Justice Charles Bonnell at Salem recently in a case against Lenard Barber, the action being based upon damage done the automobile of the plaintiff by the defendant in a motor wreck. Barber has taken an appeal to common pleas court.

Divorce Suit Filed.

Through her counsel, Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool, Pet Pappendy has filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against his wife, Verna Pappendy, who is now supposed to be residing at Detroit, Mich.

The couple were married at New Cumberland, W. Va., Feb. 21, 1912. The plaintiff charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty.

Woman Seeks Divorce.

A divorce petition has been filed by Hannah Hankins, through her counsel, G. Jay Clark of East Liverpool, against her husband, Charles Hankins, now said to be residing at Southpoint, Lawrence county. They were married at Ironton, Feb. 24th, 1921.

Mrs. Hankins charges her husband with extreme cruelty.

Minerva

Hiram H. Hart, aged 77, died suddenly of apoplexy in his home, North Market street, last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Hart had retired from business several years ago. He had been a resident here for 53 years. Besides his widow, two sons, Charles Hart, of Minerva, who succeeded his father in the grocery business and Harry Hart, a druggist at Maumenee, one daughter, Mrs. Grace Moseley, who with her husband reside at the home; also four sisters and one brother survive. The funeral was held in the home Tuesday afternoon with Rev. W. C. Fowler, pastor of the Christian church of Wheeling, W. Va., in charge, assisted by J. W. Gorrell, Interment in East Lawn cemetery.

Honoring the birthday of Mrs. Lewis Draher, a surprise party was given at her home in Grant street Friday evening by her children, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Draher and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Draher and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Draher, Vertin and Russell Draher and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hawkins and daughter. She was presented with a bridge lamp.

Pola Negri is superb as Mona, the peasant girl who is irresistibly attracted to love Oskar, a prisoner in the camp near her home, in spite of the first bitter hatred she feels toward the enemy of her country. Once more she is the Pola Negri of "Gypsy Love" and of "Passion" her two sensational European-made successes.

This is because Miss Negri was surrounded by the perfect staff, the perfect cast for the production of his new picture. Erich Pommer, who made "The Last Laugh" and "Variety," and more recently, "Hotel Imperial," was co-producer with Rowland V. Lee, who directed.

Clive Brook, one of the best of Paramounts leading men and Einar Hanson, the young Swedish actor, appear in able support of the great star. Brook plays the part of Oskar while Hanson is cast as Mona's brother, who is called away to war.

Claude Gillingwater, the veteran character actor, gives a wonderful performance as the Father and Gustav von Seyffertitz as the cold-hearted Neighbor leaves nothing to be desired in the way of villainy.

SIX DIVORCES GRANTED HERE

Decrees Issued After Hearing Before Judge W. F. Lones.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge W. F. Lones in the case of Myra E. Clark against her husband, Hubert Clark. Custody of two children has been awarded Mrs. Clark.

Extreme cruelty was charged in the divorce action filed by Gladys Franklin against her husband, Sydney Franklin, and a decree awarded the plaintiff on these grounds. The custody of a minor child, which was sought in the petition, has also been awarded by the court to the plaintiff.

Habitual drunkenness and extreme cruelty were set up in the divorce petition filed by Wylene McCowin against her husband, Harry D. McCowin, July 18th last. The customary number of witnesses went before the court to testify in this case, and a decree was awarded the plaintiff.

The court found Malva R. Marlett guilty of gross neglect of duty, in the alimony petition filed against him by his wife, L. Edna Marlett, and has ordered Marlett to pay his wife $6 per week. The custody of a minor child has been awarded to Mrs. Marlett. This petition has been pending in common pleas court since July 9 last.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, Leroy Kennedy has been granted a decree of divorce against his wife, Bertha J. Kennedy, the petition in this case having been made a matter of record July 9 last. The custody of a minor child was awarded the plaintiff.

Adda Dillon filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against her husband, James Dillon, May 25 last. She charged her husband with gross neglect of duty, and a decree was awarded the plaintiff on these grounds. Mrs. Dillon has had her maiden name restored, that of Adda Mercer.

Marriage License.
A marriage license was issued to William E. Sitter of Columbus and Miss Sarah E. Hayes of Columbiana. They were married at Lisbon by Justice M. K. Zimmerman.

UNION CHURCH MEET SCHEDULED

A union meeting of members of all churches in Lisbon will be held at the Lisbon Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Miss Grace L. Scott, a state speaker for the W. C. T. U. and secretary of the Ohio State Morality League, will speak. The music for this gathering will be furnished by the Girls' Glee club of the Lisbon high school.

Alimony Order Issued.
William J. Wark of Salem, defendant in an action in alimony filed recently in common pleas court against him by his wife, Rinnie Wark, has been ordered to pay his wife $50 at once, and also $30 weekly hereafter for her support and that of a minor. The latter payment is to be made each week.

The court, however, has also issued an order requiring the plaintiff to pay her own house rental.

Case Appealed.
Merle Miller obtained a judgment by default for $200 in the court of Justice Charles Bonnell at Salem recently in a case against Lenard Barber, the action being based upon damage done the automobile of the plaintiff by the defendant in a motor wreck. Barber has taken an appeal to common pleas court.

Divorce Suit Filed.
Through her counsel, Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool, Pete Pappendy has filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against his wife, Verna Pappendy, who is now supposed to be residing at Detroit, Mich.

The couple were married at New Cumberland, W. Va., Feb. 21, 1912. The plaintiff charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty.

Woman Seeks Divorce.
A divorce petition has been filed by Hannah Hankins, through her counsel, G. Jay Clark of East Liverpool, against her husband, Charles Hankins, now said to be residing at Southpoint, Lawrence county. They were married at Ironton, Feb. 24th, 1921.

Mrs. Hankins charges her husband with extreme cruelty.

Minerva

Hiram H. Hart, aged 77, died suddenly of apoplexy in his home, North Market street, last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Hart had retired from business several years ago. He had been a resident here for 53 years. Besides his widow, two sons, Charles Hart, of Minerva, who succeeded his father in the grocery business and Harry Hart, a druggist of Malvern, one daughter, Mrs. Grace Moseley, who with her husband reside at the home; also four sisters and one brother survive.

The funeral was held in the home Tuesday afternoon with Rev. W. C. Fowler, pastor of the Christian church of Wheeling, W. Va., in charge, assisted by J. W. Gorrell, interment in East Lawn cemetery.

Honoring the birthday of Mrs. Lewis Draher, a surprise party was given at her home in Grant street Friday evening by her children, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Draher and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Draher and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Draher, Vertin and Russell Draher and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hawkins and daughter. She was presented with a bridge lamp.

Mrs. T. C. Van Peit and son Leroy, spent the week-end with relatives in Columbus.

Floyd O. Iden and family motored on a sight-seeing trip to Gettysburg and other points of interest the past week.

Rev. Bright of Orrville preached at the Lutheran church last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl School and children of Akron, spent Sunday here with relatives.

Mrs. Helen Myers and daughter, Marilyn and Misses Roberta and Katherine Beckwith of Akron, were Sunday guests of their aunt, Miss Harriet Stanley.

Elmer Starkey and wife of Canton were Minerva callers Saturday.

Edward Hawk of Atchison, Kansas, visited his sister, Mrs. Lewis Draher and family the past week.

Clyde Schmachtenberger has returned to the home of his parents after completing a four-months' tour of France playing in the Ohio Wesleyan orchestra. They played during Ministry Thefts Mystify.

Mysterious thefts which have been occurring for several years in the official residence of the finance minister at Nagatacho, Japan, have baffled the Japanese police. Despite the fact that the brick building is guarded by policemen day and night, the thefts happen frequently. Costly gifts, flower vases and even bottles of beer have been taken. One janitor, who was suspected, went insane and was forced to retire, but the pilfering continued.

State-Northwestern

Scrap is Expected to Pack 'em in.

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The annual struggle for football supremacy in the Big Ten Conference will get under way in earnest on four mid-western gridirons today.

Northwestern versus Ohio State at Columbus appears to be the conference headline, with Purdue at Chicago a close second. In the other two championship games today Minnesota plays Indiana at Bloomington and Michigan tackles Wisconsin at Madison.

Illinois and Iowa, the two remaining Big Ten teams, are both scheduled against non-conference opponents. The Illinois clash with Iowa State at Urbana while the Hawkeyes get some much needed exercise against Wabash at Iowa City.

AT MINNEAPOLIS—Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans, won from Duke Horn, Minneapolis.

Morris Green, Minneapolis, knocked out Eddie Johnson, La. Cross, Wis.

Mike Mandell, St. Paul, stopped Lou Rollingier, Waterloo, Iowa.

AT BOSTON—"Honeyboy" Finnegan, Boston junior lightweight, won decision over Jimmy Sacco, also of Boston, 10 rounds.

BABE HAS EDGE IN HOMER DUEL

LIMA, Ohio, Oct. 15.—As a result of his two homers in yesterday's exhibition game here, Babe Ruth is leading Lou Gehrig six home runs to three in their "post-season home run duel." The two sluggers are making a coast-to-coast barnstorming tour.

Ten pound baby born here was christened Louis Herman Boylan in honor of Ruth and Gehrig.

Delaney Is Victor But Misses K. O.

FAILS TO FOLLOW UP IN WINNING FROM RENALT.

By Sid Mercer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Jack Renault of Canada, was eliminated from the heavyweight beak busting tournament last night at Madison Square Garden by his compatriot Mons Ovila Chappelaine, otherwise known as Jack Delaney, but in winning Delaney failed to definitely establish himself as a giant killer.

Delaney slew his man rather easily, performing the beak busting specialty in the fourth round when a vicious right uppercut broke a small bone in the bridge of Renault's nose. But Delaney apparently had no zest for the kill. He was content to keep Renault off by spearing him with lazy left jabs to the head on soft hooks to the stomach.

In the closing rounds Renault uncorked some desperate rallies that broke against the victor of Delaney's counter assaults. Instead of paying to the damaged nose Delaney circled, sparred and was willing to extend himself just enough to keep Renault in his place instead of following up when he had the bigger man reeling and temporarily distressed.

Delaney came on to win practically every round after the second when he was floored with a short right hook to the chin. The knockdown came as the men were charging together. Renault landed first and Delaney hit the floor. He came up as the timekeeper counted the second.

Glenna Collett won the title in 1923 and 1924, although entered in the event this year, was eliminated in the play up to the finals.

Miss Collett proved to be a real stepping stone to Helen last winter in Florida when the champion woman golfer of Maine broke into more prominence by her surprising victories over the national women's golf champion, twice Helen defeated Miss Collett, the second time in the finals of the Bel-leair championship for women.

Always fond of golf, she began playing it eight years ago when 17 years of age. But only in the last few years did she take the game seriously. She is modest in her success and contributes her victory more to the playing of her opponents than her own superior work.

AT SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Bucky Lawrence, Auburn, N. Y., won decision over Billy Leonard, Syracuse welterweight, 6 rounds.

BROWN AND YALE IN EAST CLASSIC

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15.—Brown and Yale, meeting here this afternoon in the thirty-first revival of what has come to be a New England football classic, attracted thirty thousand people to Yale bowl, under weather conditions ideal for players and spectators alike.

"Tess" McLaughry, of Brown, had six of his "iron men" of last season on hand as the basis of his team today, and "Tad" Jones started Yale's sturdy regulars who crushed Bowdoin two weeks ago and who last week barely lost to Georgia.

The game today came earlier in the season than any previous Yale-Brown match, and was the first of the two teams have played under their "no scouting" agreement. In the long period of years in which Yale and Brown have played football together the record of games won is Yale 24, Brown 4. Two games have been tied.

Yankee Lass Brings Home Golf Trophy

HELEN PAYSON ENROUTE BACK WITH CANADIAN CUP.

NOW THAT the golf birds are thinking of winging their way south, it is hoped that Miss Helen Payson will be among those present.

It was Miss Payson who regained the Canadian women's golf title for the United States, after its two-year stay in Canada in the possession of Miss Ada MacKenzie of Toronto.

Miss Fritz Stifel, also from the states, was Miss Payson's opponent in the finals, the first time in the history of the championship, extending over a period of 32 years, that two United States players fought it out for the title.

Glenna Collett won the title in 1923 and 1924, although entered in the event this year, was eliminated in the play up to the finals.

Miss Collett proved to be a real stepping stone to Helen last winter in Florida when the champion woman golfer of Maine broke into more prominence by her surprising victories over the national women's golf champion, twice Helen defeated Miss Collett, the second time in the finals of the Bel-leair championship for women.

Always fond of golf, she began playing it eight years ago when 17 years of age. But only in the last few years did she take the game seriously. She is modest in her success and contributes her victory more to the playing of her opponents than her own superior work.

AT SYRACUSE, N. Y.—Bucky Lawrence, Auburn, N. Y., won decision over Billy Leonard, Syracuse welterweight, 6 rounds.

State Faces Big Hurdle in Title Gallop

MUST LICK NORTHWESTERN TO MAINTAIN RECORD.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—Meeting for the first time since 1917, Mr. Jack Wilce's Buckeye gridirons this afternoon were to tangle with the Purple eleven from Northwestern, at Ohio stadium, before a crowd which advance estimates indicated would fill the big bowl to normal capacity.

Both teams were reported in excellent condition, and while past performance records slightly favored Ohio State, betting was mostly at even money, with the outcome a toss-up.

The clash today will mark the second hurdle in the Big Ten conference for the Wilce proteges, and the initial start in conference company of Northwestern's strong aggregation of the Wilcemen, after taking Iowa into camp last Saturday at Iowa City, were expected to strive desperately to retain their unblemished record.

Dick Hanley, the new Northwestern mentor, has a string of veterans at his disposal, who were expected to exert their utmost energies to make the Ohio game—Hanley's debut in Big Ten company—an auspicious beginning.

"Tiny" Lewis, Northwestern's star fullback, was reported ready to play today, although he has been suffering from a severe cold. He probably will not be in the starting lineup, but will be held in reserve.

"CHUCK" SMITH WINS OWOSSO GOLF TITLE

SWEEPS THROUGH MICHIGAN CLUB TOURNEY WITH LITTLE RESISTANCE, WINNING FINAL BY SCORE OF 14 UP, 13 TO GO.

Charles A. "Chuck" Smith, of Chester, now connected with the Norris & Smith Oil company, is champion of the Owoosso (Mich.) Country club as a result of his sweeping victory in the finals of the club championship tournament over Dr. G. P. Sackrider. The score was 14 up and 13 to go.

Smith will receive a large loving cup, emblematic of the club championship.

"Chuck" swept through the Owoosso field of contenders like a Hasen or a Jones, disposing of his foe in the final match with as much ease as he eliminated those with whom he was matched early in the flight.

He lost only three holes to Sackrider during the match. A remarkable feature of Smith's playing was his parring of 17 of 23 holes. Although the match was over at the twenty-third, they played out the third nine. Smith's medal score being 188 and Sackrider's 133. The par for the 27 is 108.

Smith got off some wonderful drives to make par on the majority of the holes during the match. His swing was accurate and confident. He was exceptionally good on his approach shots and several times his pitch shots from the bunkers were dead to the pin for par. In short, he played consistently good golf, winning the championship by the widest margin that has ever determined a title on the Owoosso links.

Smith went one up on Sackrider on the first hole and was never headed during the match. He took the first with a par five and Sackrider a six and the second with a similar count. On No. 3 Smith negotiated a par three to Sackrider's bogey four.

With this advantage gained on the first three holes Smith kept in the van the rest of the way in easy fashion.

They played even fives on No. 4, one over par. Smith won the next, a par four, with a five by Sackrider. They evened No. 6 with par fours. Then, on No. 7, Smith lost his first hole to Sackrider when the latter took three strokes for a par count to four by Smith.

Smith again went four up on the next, shooting a five, one over par to a six by Sackrider. Smith lost the ninth, 6 and 5, but was three up at the start of the second nine.

Smith then proceeded to win the first eight holes of the second nine, finishing 10 up at the end of the first 18. On the third nine, Smith won the first three, played the next even, and won the 23rd to take the match. They played out the nine, Smith taking 15 on the four remaining holes and Sackrider 19.

Attendance Marks Topple At Big Games

GREAT THROUGHS JAM STADIA THROUGHOUT COUNTRY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Early season records for football attendance are likely to be shattered today which will see more first class teams in major games than any previous early season date in the past. The biggest crowds are those expected at the Navy-Notre Dame game in Baltimore, the Northwestern-Ohio State battle at Columbus, Ohio, and the Stanford-Southern California game at Palo Alto. These three games together are expected to draw more than 150,000 spectators.

Here in New York, New York university and Fordham will play before 50,000 at the Yankee stadium and Columbia and Colgate will entertain approximately 18,000 at Baker field. Yale and Brown at New Haven will play host to another 50,000, and 40,000 are expected to turn out to see Harvard and Holy Cross in their annual tilt in the Harvard stadium. Then in Philadelphia between 60,000 and 70,000 are expected for the Pennsylvania-Penn State contest, always one of the most largely attended games on the Pennsylvania schedule.

Chicago and Purdue probably will draw close to 50,000 at Chicago and 30,000 are expected for the Michigan-Wisconsin game at Madison. Another crowd approaching the 40,000 mark will see the Alabama-Georgia Tech game at Atlanta.

In all, the day's football games will probably be seen by well over 1,500,000 persons, the length and breadth of the land.

was. As she looked to the world of men. . . Fresh and pretty and wholly desirable. She reached for a paper package that lay on the lower shelf of her bedside table. "Here's some light-gowns I've worn. Wash them and bring them back to me. I need them," she said, with never a please or a thank you.

Sally took them—not meekly, but calmly. And holding the package against her breast, she leaned across the bed to kiss Millie.

But Millie turned her scowling face away. "Don't kiss me!" she said, with a make-believe shudder. "I'm so nervous that I just want to be let alone—by everybody!"

But when it came to shaking hands with Davidson, it was a far different matter. She clung to him with one hand, patting his arm with the other, and made him promise to come to see her again soon.

"And bring me chocolates—bitter-sweet chocolates," she called after him. "You know the kind—with black walnuts in them."

Millie had got back her appetite at last.

"I don't believe she liked the idea of my driving home with you," Sally remarked to him when they were out in the late sunshine in the mill-stream of traffic.

"I like it, though," he replied. "I like it better than I've liked anything in a long time." He laughed. He was in a very good humor and drove Sally several miles out of her way home before he finally dropped her at her door in Trellis street.

Mrs. Jerome was in her arm-chair in the sitting room when Sally went upstairs. She had brought a new book home from the library and had sat right down to start it without taking off her hat and shoes, so she said, guiltily.

"And then," she explained, "the bell rang and a boy brought this telegram—and your papa's coming." Her voice was trembling and her cheeks were flushed with excitement. "He'll be here tonight."

Cancer Rife in India.
To succor the physical without administering to the spiritual, sound suitable opportunity occur, is to a true Salvationist foolishness. It is doing a necessary work without attaining a vital end. Thus in the daily hospital program will be found periods devoted to singing, prayer and meetings. During last year over 500 seekers were registered at the various penitentiaries in these services.

A highly developed system of village visitation is carried out by competent nurses, both Indian and European. Angels of light as well as angels of mercy are these sisters, who face no small danger in their contacts with leprosy and other most virulent and contagious diseases. The great need is for more people of their caliber with their consecrated spirit of compassion.

Cancer is rife in many parts of India. In emergencies when these and other cases need immediate operations an efficient ambulance service co-operates with the visiting nurses in bringing their patients from the outlying villages to the hospital.

ANTI-KNOCK SUPER-FLASH GASOLINE

GOOD FOR AIRPLANES

There has been a good deal of speculation as to what kind of gasoline the airplane is going to require when it gets into operation by thousands for commercial purposes.

It will surely be a gasoline that will provide maximum motor efficiency—human life is in the balance—a dependable fuel must be provided.

A tag attached to every Wright airplane motor as it leaves the factory bears the heading, "warning," and gives these instructions as to the type of fuel to be used:

"This engine is designed to use only high test aviation gasoline as fuel. The use of other fuels is apt to lead to unsatisfactory operation and serious damage to the engine. The manufacturer will assume no responsibility for the engine's performance when other fuels are used.

GOOD FOR YOUR CAR

GASOLINE FROM CALIFORNIA BASE CRUDES IS MUCH SUPERIOR TO GAS FROM MID-CONTINENT OR EASTERN CRUDES."

A great tribute to California gasolines—of which ANTI-KNOCK SUPER-FLASH is one, refined to a perfect crystal color and so pure as to eliminate the objectionable and destructive motor "knock", without the addition of "dopes" or "dyes."

A test will convince you that this gasoline has opened a new era in automobile performance.

Sold at the same price as ordinary gasoline.

OFFICIALLY OPENING THE WINTER DRAMATIC SEASON IN EAST LIVERPOOL

Opening Production Monday, Mat. & Eve.

DEAR PATRON:

For many years I have been bringing the Chicago Stock Company to the Ceramic. This season we are honored as the attraction to officially usher in your winter dramatic season.

In the plays of our repertoire this year we have six of the latest hits of New York. I want to particularly recommend our opening play, "Laff That Off," for I know that you will enjoy this clever American comedy.

Hoping to see you at the Ceramic Monday I am,

CHAS. H. ROSSKAM,
Owner and Manager,
Chicago Stock Company.
